Trauma-Focused Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy: Blending Theory with Innovative Play Therapy Techniques with Liana Lowenstein, MSW., RSW., CPT-S.

June 6 & 7, 2019 at SickKids CCMH Learning Institute, 114 Maitland Street, Toronto, ON M4Y 1E1

Description: Trauma-Focused Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (TF-CBT) is an empirically-supported psychotherapy model for treating traumatized children and adolescents. The effectiveness of this approach is enhanced by integrating creative, developmentally appropriate interventions so that children will engage in treatment. This two-day workshop will provide an overview of TF-CBT and will present creative play therapy interventions for the 8 components of TF-CBT: Psychoeducation, Relaxation, affective modulation, cognitive processing, trauma narrative, in vivo mastery, conjoint child- parent sessions, and enhancing safety. Therapeutic games, art, stories, and other innovative activities will be presented for use with traumatized children aged 4-16. Strategies for working with hard-to-engage children and parents will also be outlined.

Through case examples, activity demonstrations, experiential exercises, and videos of actual client sessions, this workshop will combine theoretical material with hands-on therapeutic interventions. Workshop participants will come away with a solid understanding of TF-CBT, and many new and innovative play therapy techniques for treating traumatized children and adolescents.

Learning Objectives:

- Identify and apply the basic principles of TF-CBT.
- Implement creative play therapy interventions for each of the eight treatment components of TF-CBT.
- Explain to clients the therapeutic benefits of completing a trauma narrative.
- Implement strategies for engaging resistant children in the completion of a trauma narrative.
- Utilize TF-CBT in play therapy sessions to treat a range of childhood traumas including sexual abuse, domestic violence, traumatic grief, car accidents, natural disasters.
